Maryland Humanities Executive Director Phoebe Stein, Baltimore County
Executive John A. Olaszewski, Jr., and HSBC Executive Director James Koffer cut the ribbon at the grand opening of the new temporary exhibit, Water/Ways.

Exhibit Open Through July 6

Water/Ways, an exhibition from the Smithsonian’s Museum on Main Street, explores the relationship between people and water.

Here in Baltimore
County, we have a long water-related history that is often overlooked. Visit the Almshouse during the Water/Ways exhibit to see how integral the area's waterways have been to the area's earliest inhabitants, to the economic growth of the county throughout the 18th century, and to our way of life now.

Water/Ways is part of Museum on Main Street, a unique collaboration between the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES), state humanities councils across the nation, and local host institutions.

Admission is FREE!
All Ages Welcome • Elevator Available
